BLAIR'S PLATFORM.

On our fourth page, in connection with the speech of Singage Many to the Constitution of the terms of Jerr. Davis.

On our fourth page, in connection with the appeals of Senator Monrox, in the Senate, will be found the letter written by Gen. Phank P. Blain, the Democratic candidate for Vice President, a few days before the meeting of the Democratic National Convention. The letter is very explicit, and undoubtedly secured to him the nomination he acought. In this letter he laid down his platform in advance, and the hearry approval with which it was received and his unanimous nomination, virtually makes it the leading plank in the Democratic about the Arms of the whole thing and this platform in advance, and the hearry approval with which it was received and his unanimous nomination, virtually makes it the leading plank in the Democratic about the whole thing and this arms of Jgry, Davis.

The following is the letter:

Republicans should preserve this letter for future reference, coming as it does from a man who has a thorough knowledge of the revolutionary intentions of the Democracy, in the event of their success. This, the remembered is the great and broad issue presented to this country, and is not to be obscured by alfacks on Gen-Grant, or by anything that may be said of the past. "Shall there be," asks Senator Morros, "acquiescence in and submission to the action of Congress; shall we again have peace in this country; shall we again resume our progress, growth and prosperity; or shall war become the normal condition of the United States as it has been of other countries?" The Ku-Klox Democracy has declared for war continuous, usending war, except upon the condition of the success of the principles of the removal of the success of the principles of the removal of the case and determine the registron of the proper count condition of the continuous, usending war, except upon the condition of the popula of the proper count condition of the removal of the proper count condition of the removal of the proper count condition of the proper count on in proper a question. All the rights of the parties. If this he wrong, then I am to blame, but not intentionally as. When, appear a question of so much importance as the removal of the success of the principles of the removal of the case and determine the rights of the success of the principles of the removal of the country seat is to the people of the removal of the success of the principles of the removal of the country seat is to the people of the removal of the success of the principles of the removal of the country seat is to the people of the removal of the success of the principles of the

Since then, General BLAIR has written his letter of acceptance, which is only an expansion of the views contained in the letter with which he bid for and obtained his nomination. His last letter gives evidence that it is his determination to be the master-spirit of the Democratic party. A cotemporary aptly characterizes it as "the wild war-whoop of the Ku-Kiux Democracy." There is no mistaking the rebellions spirit that animates our political opponents. spirit that animates our political opponents.

In 1865, Mr. Ashley stated that he would not again present himself as a candidate. Why does he not athere to his promise? Shall we sacrifice the District merely to gratify the overweening ambition of see man? I do not dictate—I do not advise—but I suggest the absolute importance of selecting a candidate who will fairly represent the progressive Republicans of this District, and secure the full vote of the party at the ballot box, in October next.

The Democratic press are constantly complaining about taxes. They are heavy, and we regret that Democratic forced upon the Government the necessity of levying them.
